Excel at Rezzen

WITH nearly 800 satisfied MBA (Master of Business Administration) graduates from its programmes, it comes as no surprise that former Rezzen students are eager to pursue their Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM) DBA (Doctor of Business Administration) degree with the learning centre as well.

Several features that make this programme attractive include:

- ▶ classes that are catered to busy, working adults and delivered part-time on weekends at Rezzen centres in KL and Penang;
- ▶ student grades are monitored to ensure they remain in good standing throughout the course, which has enabled a high rate of passes among students;
- ▶ a virtual learning management system that enables students to manage their course content and workload systematically;
- ▶ centres average no more than 50

- students per class, allowing for more personalised attention;
- ▶ possibility of deferment as this allows the student to “balance” their study with job responsibilities and such;
- ▶ the DBA degree has proven itself a good resource for career mobility and progress in one’s career climb; and
- ▶ government funding has enabled scholarships for higher degrees to be undertaken on a part-time basis, including programmes for post-graduate students.

Registration for the course is simple but only the crème de la crème are selected. The majority of students who have successfully gained entry into Rezzen comprise management level personnel holding posts like chief executives, directors and board members.
